The Africa Fertilizer Agribusiness Conference is collaboration between CRU and The African Fertilizer and Agribusiness Partnership (AFAP).

"Due to this unique collaboration we can offer unrivalled networking opportunities with senior decision-makers from the biggest fertilizer buyers and manufacturers in some of the world's fastest growing fertilizer markets," says Michael Cluskey, senior marketing manager of CRU.

"Delegates will benefit from three days of dedicated networking opportunities and a comprehensive programme of high-level presentations covering key market trends, project updates and supply and demand forecasts."

"Being held in Dar es Salaam, a key hub for regional trade, and timed to coincide with the seasonal procurement negotiations, the event offers participants the chance to make new connections and gain first-hand knowledge on the progress of the African fertilizer projects that will be impacting global prices. Drawing on CRU's technical event experience, the Africa Fertilizer Agribusiness conference will also feature an extensive exhibition of the world's cutting edge fertilizer and agribusiness technologies and services," he concluded.
